

DELIVERING RELIABLE, AFFORDABLE AND ENVIRONMENTALLY RESPONSIBLE ENERGY

By Jesse Singerhouse, General Manager

During my speech at the recent Annual Meeting, I stated that Dunn Energy Cooperative will work to deliver you reliable, affordable, and environmentally responsible energy. While I certainly recognize that there are many different opinions on what reliability, affordability, and environmentally responsible energy looks like, I hope we can all agree that those three goals must be front and center as we plan for the future of your cooperative. Your board of directors will soon participate in a strategic planning session to prepare for issues impacting your cooperative in the years ahead. I'm certain the three goals stated above will be mentioned several times.

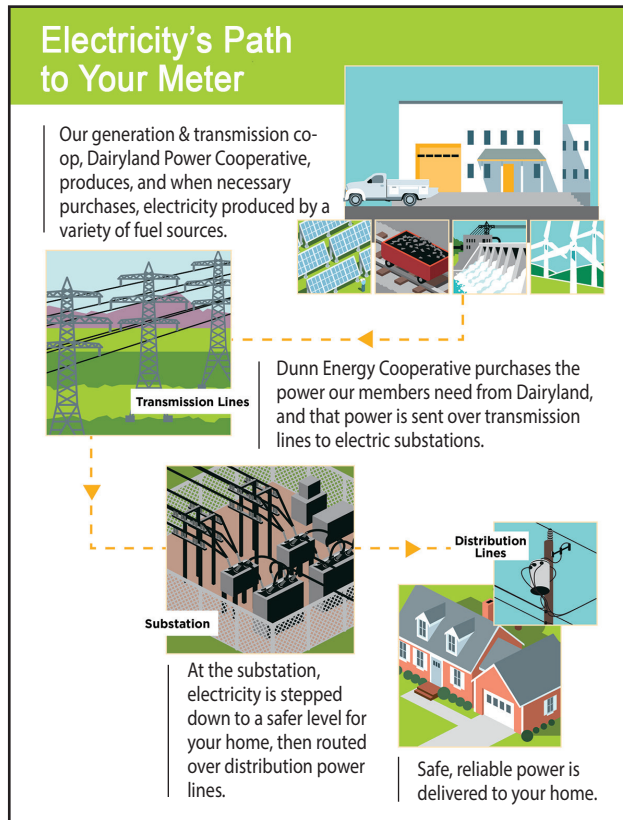

As you can imagine, when we have extreme heat or extreme cold the demand for electricity rises dramatically. This causes us to think more about the future of our energy supply and how we keep it reliable and affordable and work to make it more environmentally responsible. As I write this article in early July, we have already had over 10 days where temperatures have reached the 90-degree mark. It wouldn't be wise for your electric cooperative to only plan for the average demand day. To ensure that you have reliable energy service when you need it, we must develop our systems to meet the highest demand days.

Think of it like the interstate through Minneapolis/St. Paul. There are up to eight lanes available, multiple exit ramps, and several different roads to use. At 7 a.m. on a Sunday this might seem like overkill due to the lack of traffic, but 24 hours later at 7 a.m. on a Monday all of the lanes are in use and traffic is bumper to bumper. The road is bigger than it needs to be at points in time, but it is designed for those high demand times, just like our electric grid. At every point in the delivery of power, from the generation source (i.e., coal or natural gas power plant, wind farm, or solar field) to the line leading to your meter, each piece of equipment needs to be sized to carry the highest demand for electricity—not just the average demand for electricity. While this certainly adds cost to the process, it is absolutely necessary to make sure your electricity is delivered, not only reliably, but safely as well.

After the issues Texas experienced last winter, we had several questions from the community about the future of power supply. Renewable energy, electric vehicles, and infrastructure investment have also been hot button issues in the media and the political arena recently as well. So, over the next few months I hope to explore some of these issues in my column, not to advocate for one position over the other, but to educate our members about the issues at hand. We will take a look at each aspect of the three objectives I started this article with. (7773001)

The board members and employees of Dunn Energy Cooperative work diligently to deliver on the goals of reliability, affordability, and environmentally responsible energy, and do so in a safe and locally focused way. While the challenges seem big; the opportunities are endless.

MY CO-OP

Hidden Account Numbers

If you find your account number hidden in the pages of this magazine and you call and tell us before the next issue is mailed, we'll put a $50 credit on your electric bill. Happy hunting!

Last month's winners were Kevin Knospe and Tony Bethke.
